part, Git. 6 § 22. Whereon and against whom high treason against the Kings person and the estates had been sufficie outly verifyed, I procured his own death in attempting to escape out of Prison, the dead mean was prosecuted on pannal and doom given against him as a traitor by decreet of forfaul from his Majestie 31 January 1603 Umquil Francis Moubra 9° The King's Advocate is to be the last speaker to the assize in the case of high treason and Rebellion against the King: tho in other cases the pannals Advocates have the Privilege of speaking last. Act of Parl. of the Justices court 1672. Act. 10 and answering all that is advanced by the pursuer. Witnesses Stood in cases of Treason tho persons to be proponed were declared liable as guilty of that Crime: But those Depositions so omitted were not to militate against the Deponents themselves any manner of way Act 4 Jac. 1 Parl. J. 7.

10° The Roman law Punisheth treason by death and confis tion of the traitor's whole estate l. 5 C. ad L. Jul. Maj. Hereditas or Moveable lying within the territories of the offended Prince but not what lies elsewhere c. 2 de Constitutionibus in 6. Both not allow the Mourning Ceremonie or publick Acts of Grief to be performed to a traitor l. 1 § de Cadav. Punit. l. 11 § 3 ff de Bon pun. Nol. Infam. l. 35 ff de Relig & sumpt. fun. And Declares Children incapable to Enjoy any estate Dignity or office ut Mort. ad illos Solatium, Vita Supplicium d. l. 5 C. ad L. Jul. Maj. The Canon law is no less severe to traitors than the civil law. Yea ordains their houses to be thrown down and to lie Perpetually in ruine
c. 5 de panis in 6. The Parliament of Paris had sentence of Deletation of Ravilack Attrocious crime, that they con demned his very Parents to Banishment and all the Family to Change their Name. But no Nation doth now deal thus Kings roundly with Children for their Fathers Transgressions, Arg. Matth. de Crimin. ad lib. 48 Tit. 20 cap. 3 n. 11. Nor doth the law of God allow one to suffer for the sin of Another Deut. 24 16.
2 Kings 14. 6. The Instance of Achans Children who were stoned to death and burnt for their Fathers Crime, Josh.
7. 18. 24. 25. Concludes nothing Against this Just opinion: Crimes these were punished by the Revealed Will of God, who can alter and dispone with the laws of Nature as pleases him: probably the whole Family was Imped ed in the guilt by Receiving the theft, and being privy to it, seeing the Stolen goods were found in the house where it was ordinary in Scotland for the friends of a person Condemned for high treason to get a warrand for attending them mourning upon the Scaffold, and to bury them: the same Custome offers to limit the friends of Traitors in that Matter 30 July 1680 Hack Stoun of Rathillet. Yet I do not find where ever the wearing Mourning for or burying a traitor without warrand was Reckoned a Crime Cod. Confiture of life lands goods and gear is Relaxed over whether Heritable or Moveable Personal or Reall is the priviledge of treason Act 3 Parl. 1 J. 1. And the Men cannot dispone Their lives of honour, nor their Predicators a priviledge from forfeiture Yet traitors forfeit and lose these. Confiture (in Latin foris facta quasi foris ait extra Legem facere) is Deriv'd from the French word forfait and offence or transgression. Confiture of an Apparent heir carries right to Entayle Devolved upon him thro the death of his predecessor Act 2 Parl. J. 6. Tho he be not Infeft: But if he die before his predecessor, the Gift cannot Excluds his Descendants from succeeding to that predecessor Stair Just. lib. 3 Git. 3 § 35. Loosing the forfeiture did not capacitate the predecessor to dispose of his own estate, and incapacitate the predecessor to dispose of his own estate, and Parents may freely determine Concerning their Children in Scotland without Impediment by Complaints of Recreditation. And were laid to bind up a parent more Strictly in favour of the Child than of his own Heirs: Unless a Fraudulent Design to Disappoint the effect of forfeiture without a Reasonable cause were Made appear. Tho a person Infeft in Life rent being forfeited for treason becomes Nullus Civilitor by the sentence, the life rent dothnot Escheat, but belongs to the Superior, while the traitor lives, Stuart Answers to Dirlot. doubts Gil. Confiture. Confiture of the Kings Immediate ward was Declared by Act of Parliament 1690 Cap. 30 Recognition Made of the ward Lands Return to his Majestie as they came from him free of all Burdens not Consented to by him Stair lib. 3 Git. 3 § 31 § 39 in fine. Forfeiture, by Laws before the Year 1690 did not only carry away Rights and Infeftments of the traitor, but also those of his or her wife or husband Vassals, Creditors and Heirs of Entail. Without any obligation upon the Soveraign to Redeem or Dodge the traitors deeds not Confirmed or Consented to by his Majestie before the treason Committed Haw. lib. 3 § 30 M. Lonzie Officers of Arms 37 Dec. 2 J. 6. Which gave Rise to the Act Anent Entails 1685 Cap. 22 Whereby it is Statute and Ordained that the Kings Majestie and his Successors shall have Power to Annex to the Crown Lands Heritages and Superiorities Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, and to Dispone the same to any of his Subjects, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1690 Cap. 30 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that Forfeitures for Treason shall not Extend to the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, but that the Superiorities of such Lands shall Remain with the Crown, and that the Vassals Holding of the Crown shall Hold of the Crown as formerly, and that the Superiorities of such Lands shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1695 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1696 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1698 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1700 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1702 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1704 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1706 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1708 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1710 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1712 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1714 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1716 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1718 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1720 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1722 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1724 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1726 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1728 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1730 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1732 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1734 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1736 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1738 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1740 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1742 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1744 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1746 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1748 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1750 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1752 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1754 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1756 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1758 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1760 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1762 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1764 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1766 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1768 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1770 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1772 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1774 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1776 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1778 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1780 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1782 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1784 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1786 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1788 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1790 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1792 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1794 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1796 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1798 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1800 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1802 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1804 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1806 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1808 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1810 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1812 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1814 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1816 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1818 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1820 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1822 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1824 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1826 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1828 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1830 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1832 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1834 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1836 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1838 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1840 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1842 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1844 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1846 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1848 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1850 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1852 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1854 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1856 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1858 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1860 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1862 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1864 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1866 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1868 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1870 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1872 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1874 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1876 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1878 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1880 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1882 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1884 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1886 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1888 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1890 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1892 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1894 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1896 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1898 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1900 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1902 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1904 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1906 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1908 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1910 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1912 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1914 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1916 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1918 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1920 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1922 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1924 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1926 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1928 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1930 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1932 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1934 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1936 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1938 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1940 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1942 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which Declares that the Superiorities of Lands Holden of the Crown, Which are Forfeited for Treason, shall not be Granted to any Subject, but shall be Annexed to the Crown, and Inseparably United therewith, Which Act is Explained by the Act 1944 Cap. 47 Anent Forfeitures, Which